

Celebrating the Transformation of a School

Staff and pupils at NCHS The Science College are today celebrating their amazing success.

Ofsted have released a report which confirms that NCHS The Science College is now officially "a good school". Parents with pupils at this school can now be officially reassured that their choice to send their children to NCHS was a "good " choice.

Despite many schools in Staffordshire failing to meet the new higher expectations of the Ofsted Inspectors, this school has demonstrated "rapidly improving standards"

Executive Headteacher Mark Heuston said:

"This fantastic report shows the amazing journey which the school has been on for the last 3 1/2 years. This is a ringing endorsement of the work the staff, students and governors have done in recent years and we are rightly proud of our excellent achievements."
